ISSUE

Federal Transit Administration (FTA) guidelines allow for retirement of buses with over 500,000 miles or 12 years of service. With the introduction and continued acceptance of new buses, the MTA is replacing buses that meet this criteria. Disposal of the surplus/obsolete buses will result in increased revenue to the MTA and is consistent with established MTA policy regarding asset disposal.

BACKGROUND

MTA policy allows for the disposal of surplus buses by bid or auction. In this particular case, sale of buses would be by auction rather than a formal sealed bid. Past experience has shown that an auction generates a greater amount of monetary return than a sealed bid.

DISCUSSION

The sale of 60 buses generated $5,324.50 of revenue. This action conforms with the MTA's goal to maximize revenue through the disposal of surplus/obsolete assets.

Attachment: Active Fleet Records.
